A Patriorie Letter.

The following copy of a latter addressed to the President of the United States by Colonel E. F. Beale, present surveyor general of California, will be read with pleasure, alike for its noble spirit and cheering example. In a let-fornia, will be read with pleasure, alike for its noble spirit and cheering example. In a letter to a personal friend, which came by the same mail, Cdonel Beale says "nothing could be more delightful or agreeable to me than the office I bold, at least in California; neverthetes, I feet use il an services are required this to time to withheld them from my country. I have been looking forward with the teenest delight to two or three years of test after so many long ones of hardship, but I will cheerfully put off my time of rest still longer, or find eternal rest in an honorable grave, under the old flag. I conscientiously believe that the fare of the commons of the wested depends upon the issue of the struggle; and I am willing, if need be, to devote my life to the great cause of the people; "

San Francisco, California, July 24, 1861.—A short time ago you did me the honor to appepen time to a moet important and responsible position, for which I beg you to accept my grateful acknowledgement. Under any other condition of public affairs, you have left me nothing to decire; but to the flag under which I have received honorable wounds—under which my father and grandfather fought for the honor and glory of the country—I think I owe something more, in this hour of trial, than a mere performance of duty in a position of case and quiet. To the government, I owe early education and support; for I entered its service almost a child, and I feel towards it a flial affection and gratifude. All that I have, even my life, I owe to it, and it is a debt I am willing gratefully and cheerfully to discharge.

From fourteen to twenty-sive, my life was passed at sea, and for the past tifteen years principally on the great plains and in the Rocky Mountains.

I served during the Mexican war, and a tite clear resigned, and have been engaged in many expeditions of some importance since. I know that I am resolute, patient, and active, and if I had not courses we leve and if I had not courses with level.

You cannot add to the distinction you have already c neered on me by any appointment, for there is nens within your gift more distinguished or more honorable, nor do I desire any change except that I may more efficiently serve the United States. In a word, I wish simply to offer my life for the flag.

With your result your obeliest earn.

"We inderstand that a suspicious-looking box was sent to the house of Rev. Mr. Moody, the next morning after a collection for missionary purposes. It was delivered by a little girl, who said she had been re justed to leave it at that heuse. The minister having some fears, from the weight of it, that mischief was intended, had his family retire from the house, after the maid had departed, and then putting the box in the hall, proceeded with care to cut the strings and remove the covering, when another box appeared, which was singularly nailed. This he turned bottom side up, and commenced cutting through the bottom, as a safer mode of coming at its real contents. When the box was penetrated there was an appearance of gold, and the result of further ircisions revealed testee hundred and eighty dollars?"
